Welcome

Dear Student

We are pleased that you have decided to study English with us and we welcome you to the 2018/2019 academic year.

To help familiarise you with the Department of English, the staff and Students’ Committee (Fachschaftsvorstand) have compiled this HELP booklet with key information about various rules and regulations, as well as some more general advice concerning your studies. For example, HELP offers information about: the department and its library, the BA curriculum, academic papers and plagiarism rules, studying and staying abroad, and grants.

Of course, HELP cannot answer all of your questions, especially at the beginning of your studies. For this reason we really recommend making direct, one-on-one contact with the teaching staff and with more senior students.

NOTE: It is vital that you sign up for the BA mailing list immediately. This is our main means of communication with our students, and you will receive important information about the department and your studies. The links to the mailing lists are published on our homepage (www.ens.unibe.ch).

For further information and for departmental news, please also consult the departmental website and especially the FAQ section regularly. The Students’ Committee is also here to help you with queries (see below).

Kind regards and welcome again.

Conduct in the Department

The following Departmental guidelines have been compiled to help make explicit some of the basic standards we expect – and adhere to ourselves – when it comes to written correspondence (letters and emails) and professional conduct more generally. This is also a chance to clarify expectations concerning absences and the use of the tea corner.

General conduct

• The department is first and foremost a place of work for study, learning and writing. Please therefore try to keep the noise down in the corridors and in the tea corner (see below); sometimes, just pulling the tea corner door to is enough. We strongly discourage the use of cellphones in the corridors.

• If you know you will be missing a class, we expect you to send a short email to your instructor alerting them to the fact and proffering some kind of explanation. (See Absences below.) We consider this a matter of basic professional courtesy. If you have already missed a class, please send an email to apologise and confirm that you will be making necessary arrangements to catch up on the work missed.

• Members of academic and administrative staff should addressed on a first-name basis unless you have been specifically invited to address them this way. Being on a first-name basis, however, does not mean that common-sense politeness and professional standards cease to apply.

• In face-to-face interaction, students are commonly addressed by their first name; but please advise staff to address you by family name, if you prefer. In all written communication we ask that you use professional titles along with names – this applies to emails as well.

Written correspondence

All written correspondence – print letters and emails – addressed to members of staff should follow a formal style. We realise that email often blurs the public-private boundary, but in the workplace they are always professional interactions. We expect the following principles to be applied:

Openings and closings

Please always start your emails by addressing staff by name and by using their academic (i.e. professional) title. Please also sign off your emails or letters appropriately. If you do not know the title of a member of staff, consult the website. In the table below we offer some examples of how, in English at least, to begin and end written correspondence.
OPENING

On a separate first line:

Dear Professor Smith,
Dear Dr Brown,
Dear Ms Jones,
Dear Mr Jones,
Dear Alison,
Dear Timothy,

CLOSING

On a separate penultimate line:

Yours sincerely,
Sincerely,
Best wishes,
Kind regards,

Note: The commas are optional according to modern “open punctuation” conventions. In US-American practice, the colon can be used after the salutation; in the UK and elsewhere, this would be considered quite odd.

Introducing yourself/stating the subject

Please always give clear, specific information in the subject line of emails or in the reference line of letters.

Remember, the staff member you are writing to might not immediately know who you are or why you are writing to them. It is usually helpful if you use the opening paragraph to introduce yourself, mention the seminar or lecture concerned and state the issue. It is also common courtesy to acknowledge emails by, for example, thanking staff for their assistance or by confirming that the issue in question has been resolved.

If you are writing to any member of staff who is not your immediate instructor, we ask that you always reference your student number in the subject line. For example, if you are writing to the Head of Department, your Study Counsellor, the International Coordinator, etc.

Register and style

All emails and letters sent to members of staff should, as we say, be treated as professional correspondence and therefore regarded as formal. This likewise means that you should adhere to the rules of formal writing with regard to, for example, paragraphing, capitalisation, punctuation, and word choice. It helps a lot if your correspondence is succinct and clearly organized so that staff know easily and quickly what your concerns or issues are.

Absences

Our departmental standards are very clear: attendance is expected for all classes, and consistent, active participation is mandatory. We understand this as matter of professional, academic and civic responsibility. Our educational mission and your learning is heavily subsidized, and we are responsible to the Bernese public for taking our work seriously and doing our jobs (yours and ours) properly.
Students who consistently fail to participate actively in class may be failed. In this regard, we consider non-participation in more than two sessions of a lecture or seminar, and more than one session of a colloquium, to be unacceptable. Allowance is always made for university-sanctioned absences such as documented illnesses, deaths in the family or military service. Regardless, any absence threatens the success of your learning and missed work should always be caught up and/or made up.

The tea corner
The department’s tea corner is open to all staff and students. This is a special space – not all departments have one. It is also a space that it managed with the help of the Students’ Committee. Equipped with a fridge and microwave, plates, cups and cutlery, the tea corner is a space for spending your lunch hour, mid-morning or mid-afternoon breaks, and for other informal moments with peers and staff.

Do please pay for milk and sugar; by the same token, please don’t use other people’s supplies without asking. Please always clean up after yourself – stacking the dishwasher, washing up and wiping down any surfaces you have used.

Consultations
Your instructors and counsellors are available for consultation during the hours indicated on their office doors or on their personal staff pages on the website, otherwise by appointment. Additionally, it is recommended that all students meet with a study counsellor at least once during their BA studies. To find out who to contact, please consult the ‘Who to Ask’ section on our website.

Website, Mailing Lists and Notice Boards
Students should consult the notice boards in the corridor and the department’s website on a regular basis for course details and important announcements.

It is vital that students sign up to the BA mailing list when they begin their studies. The mailing list is our primary means of communication with the student body. On our website (www.ens.unibe.ch) you find a link to the mailing list.

Other

Photocopying

The photocopying machine in the department is for the use of staff only. Students may use the machine downstairs in the BTO (the main library). A card for photocopies and printing can be purchased from the BTO.

Desks and storage cabinets

Students can reserve the use of a desk and/or a set of drawers in the library for the period of one semester. Apply at the library office for allocation and keys (Room B 271). Locked cupboard space is also available at the BTO.

Mobile Phone Use

Speaking on mobile phones is not permitted in the hallways of the department, as it is disruptive.

Writing Academic Papers

Form and Content

In the course of your studies, you will be required to write a number of papers. Academic papers belong to a specific type of text that is defined in terms of form and content. Hence, there are formal conventions that should be observed when writing papers in Literature and Language and Linguistics. Students of the Department of English are asked to follow the rules on format outlined in the Style Sheets for Literature and for Language and Linguistics, which can be found on the website at http://www.ens.unibe.ch/studies/learning_resources/writing_papers/index_eng.html.

The rules concerning the content of a paper differ from one case to another, depending on the material, the topic, and the method you choose, as well as whether you are writing a paper in Language and Linguistics or in Literature. This is why we ask you to consult your instructor before you start writing an academic paper. You may also find it helpful to consult the manual on writing papers that is available on the same website.

You must hand in all papers apart from your BA and MA theses with a submission sheet, which can be found online at http://www.ens.unibe.ch/studies/learning_resources/submitting_assessments/index_eng.html.

All papers must also have:

- a title page containing the following information: University of Bern, Department of English; the title of the paper; the name of the supervisor; the type of paper (BA/MA thesis, BA/MA seminar paper, etc.); the author’s full name, address, email and matriculation number; and the date;
- a table of contents;
- a references / works cited section.

Plagiarism: Academic Deceit and Dishonesty

Plagiarism is one of the most flagrant violations of academic standards. The consequences of plagiarism are accordingly drastic and may lead to the exclusion from the study programme. It must therefore be absolutely clear to you what plagiarism means. It is imperative that you read the document ‘What is Plagiarism?’, to be found on our website at www.ens.unibe.ch/studies/learning_resources/writing_papers, and make sure to include a signed non-plagiarism declaration for every paper you hand in. A non-plagiarism declaration is included in the submission sheet.
Study Plan (aka curriculum)

This section is based on Study Plan 2017 (Studienplan für die Bachelor- und Masterprogramme des Instituts für Englische Sprachen und Literaturen vom 12. Dezember 2016) and its appendix, which provide detailed information specifying course requirements and credits, papers, exams, attendance and possible study at other universities. It is imperative that you download Study Plan 2017 and the appendix from the website and read them thoroughly as they represent the legal basis of your studies. You can find them at:

http://www.ens.unibe.ch/studies/study_programmes/index_eng.html

Please note that it is also advisable to read Reglement der Studien und Leistungskontrollen (RSL 05), to be found at:

http://www.philhist.unibe.ch/about_us/regulations_and_guidelines/index_eng.html

General Information for BA Students

The Study Programmes

The Department of English offers the following degree programmes:

- A BA (Bachelor of Arts) in English: tending as a rule over 6 semesters (3 years). The degree can be pursued as a major (Hauptfach, 120 ECTS) or a minor (Nebenfach, 60 or 30 ECTS), and it covers the fields of both English Language and Linguistics, and Literatures in English.

Course Types

There are three main types of courses: lectures, seminars and workshops.

- Lectures work mainly on a frontal input principle, but students are expected to have familiarised themselves with the material for the session and to contribute to discussions.
- Seminars are based on student discussion, either in the plenum or in smaller groups. Students are expected to actively contribute in each session, to be well prepared and to be able to critically engage with the material for the session.
- Workshops are courses that focus on application and practice. Students are expected to do some tasks for each session.
The Credit Point System

Students are awarded credit points (ECTS) on the successful completion of a module or course. The total numbers of credit points required for completion are:

- BA Major: 120 ECTS
- BA Minor: 60 or 30 ECTS

Graded Courses

The final mark awarded for the BA major or minor is cumulative, i.e. each mark acquired for each of the graded modules and courses is counted towards the final mark. The final mark is an average of each mark weighted according to the number of credit points for that module. Marks can be given for different kinds of assessment, ranging from written examinations through seminar papers, project reports to oral presentations etc. You will be informed by the course instructor what work you are expected to do for a mark.

None of the graded modules that count towards the final mark may be insufficient. In other words, you cannot compensate insufficient marks.

Furthermore, BA students must successfully complete the Propädeutikum, i.e. the Language Module and the Core Curriculum, in order to enter the next phase of their studies (please see below). An insufficient assessment can be repeated only once and must result in a sufficient mark.

Ungraded Courses

Study units that are ungraded are evaluated on a pass/fail basis. In order to pass, you have to complete all the work required in a satisfactory manner. This may include, among others, written assignments, lecture notes or presentations specified by the course instructor.

Completion of Studies

Once you have completed your major or minor studies you need to fill in the form Bescheinigung des zuständigen Instituts, which can be found on the faculty homepage (www.philhist.unibe.ch/studium/bachelor_master), and have it signed by the department’s Studienleitung (see the department’s ‘Who To Ask’ list for the current holder of that office). He or she will confirm that all study requirements have been met. Check the faculty’s website for further information.

Taking Courses at a Different University

You may take a certain number of courses at other universities as long as those universities have a comparable study programme (for details see Study Plan 2017, articles 17, 19, 26, 27, 33, 44 and 52). Students wishing to take courses at another university need to consult a study counsellor before taking this step and make sure they complete a learning agreement.
BA Study Programmes

The BA major programme develops in three consecutive phases. The BA minor programmes deviate slightly from this structure (see Study Plan 2017 Appendix).

1. Induction Phase: These are the Propädeutikum courses. The main focus lies on the acquisition of methodological competences in the areas of language and linguistics, history of English, literature and academic language use.

2. Focussing Phase: This phase develops subject expertise, which is deepened within a selectable thematic focus and a choice of lectures and seminars.

3. Completion Phase: The research focus is developed further and students explore their academic interests in their BA thesis.

In their first year, major students have to complete all parts of the Core Curriculum as well as the Language Module (Propädeutikum courses/Induction Phase). Minors are also advised to complete the Language Module and the Core Curriculum in their first year of studies. Students have to complete and pass all Propädeutikum courses before they can move on to other courses. When planning your studies, please note that Propädeutikum courses are only offered in one semester (some in autumn, some in spring). The rest of the programme is less strictly structured and offers students more freedom of choice and flexibility. For more information please have a look at the sample timetables for new students at http://www.ens.unibe.ch/studies/learning_resources/index_eng.html.

After the Propädeutikum, students pursue their own interests by attending lectures, seminars and workshops of their choice, or by doing independent study. Furthermore, students must pass an exam based on a reading list of both literary and linguistic works (see www.ens.unibe.ch/studies/course_types_and_modules for more details), and experience life in an English-speaking country on a stay abroad (only applicable to BA major and 60-minor students). In addition, there is a Freier Wahlbereich (electives) for BA majors, in which students are expected to acquire 15 credit points within other study programmes offered by the university. All 15 credit points in your Wahlbereich (electives) need to be graded.

Curriculum structure

Language Module

The Language Module provides the necessary language training and training in academic writing to equip students for their studies. The module consists of four courses (Writing Skills I/II and Grammar I/II), which are taken during the first year of studies.

Core Curriculum

The Core Curriculum provides students with the basic knowledge and skills necessary to study the two disciplines, Language and Linguistics, and Literature. It consists of four lectures and two seminars and are taken within the first year of studies.

Focus Module

Focus Modules cover thematic foci of academic interest to your studies. A Focus Module consists of one lecture and a choice of connected seminars. Usually, two Focus Modules are offered each semester, one in Language and Linguistics and one in Literature. All students attend the lecture and one seminar of their choice, plus they write a graded seminar paper. During their studies, BA major and minor (60 ECTS) students complete one Focus Module. Students may only attend Focus Modules once they have completed the Language Module and the Core Curriculum.

Stay Abroad
The Stay Abroad provides students with an opportunity to use the practical and cultural skills acquired during their course of study in an English-speaking country (see also the Stay Abroad section below).

Research Module
In the Research Module, BA major students apply their acquired skills in the writing of a thesis. This module consists of the thesis and two semesters of attending the Bachelor Colloquium. In the first semester of the colloquium, students will be able to collect ideas for a project and see how their more advanced peers go about planning and writing their theses. During the second semester of the colloquium, students get the opportunity to present their work in progress and get feedback from their peers. Students need to complete the Research Module in consecutive semesters.

The BA Thesis
To complete the BA major programme, students are required to write a thesis of approximately 15,000 words in either Language and Linguistics or in Literature. In order to begin working on the BA thesis, students must have completed all compulsory modules with the exception of the Research Module. A reasonable number of optional ungraded credits may still be outstanding. This has to be confirmed by a study counsellor upon registration for the thesis.

Registration deadlines: Students must approach a supervisor for their thesis early on in the term before they plan to start writing. Students must have their supervisors sign their thesis registration form the semester before they intend to write their thesis. Students must also have their study counsellor sign their thesis registration form, showing that all necessary credits have been fulfilled, and hand in the form to the secretariat at the beginning of the semester in which they intend to write their thesis.

*The deadline for submission is usually the last day of the semester, but please adhere to the specific submission deadline agreed on with your supervisor on the registration form.

Withdrawal from the BA thesis registration is possible only until the middle of the semester. Thereafter, a withdrawal is only granted on the basis of substantial and documented reasons (e.g. doctor’s certificate), and failure to provide such will result in an insufficient mark. The writing of the thesis should take no longer than three months to complete.

Free-standing Lectures and Seminars

In the Focussing Phase, BA major students have to complete two lectures (ungraded) and three seminars (graded). While students can choose which lectures and seminars they attend, they are required to take one lecture in either field (Literature or Language and Linguistics) and at least one seminar in either field. BA minor (60 ECTS) students complete one graded seminar of their choice. Free-standing lectures and seminars are not thematically connected like a Focus Module.

Optional Ungraded Courses within the Department (Wahlleistungen/Electives)

BA students collect a certain amount of ungraded credits by completing courses offered within the Department of English or by doing independent study (see the Course Overview below).

Advanced Readings in Linguistics and Literature

All BA major students must pass an exam on essential reading. The Advanced Readings in Linguistics and Literature Exam (short ‘Reading List Exam’) covers a core list of works and a specialisation list of your choice. You must pass the reading list exam before you write your BA thesis.

The advanced reading list has three parts:

1. Four texts from North American Studies (one novel, one play, one short story, one group of poems)
2. Four texts from Medieval and Modern English Literature (one novel, one play, one piece of short fiction, one group of poems)
3. Four texts from Linguistics.

You must also choose a specialisation list, which is comprised of an additional eight texts, from one of the three domains above. For more information, visit our website at:

http://www.ens.unibe.ch/studies/course_types_and_modules/index_eng.html

Independent Studies

Optional ungraded credits \((\text{Wahlleistungen/electives})\) can also be acquired by doing independent work, such as attending an academic conference, organising a course or event (e.g. readings or reading groups), conducting linguistic fieldwork or archive research, attending a summer school, etc. Independent Studies projects have to be approved and supervised by both a member of the teaching staff and the Independent Studies Coordinator. Credit points will be allotted according to workload. For more information, visit our website:

http://www.ens.unibe.ch/studies/course_types_and_modules/independent_studies/index_eng.html

BA Workshops

Workshops are application and practice-oriented classes. They are evaluated on a pass/fail basis without a grade and can be taken optionally in order to acquire the necessary total number of optional credits \((\text{Wahlleistungen/electives})\).

Tutorials

Tutorials are offered regularly for lectures and seminars. In tutorials, students can revise and expand on the content of the lecture, discuss open questions or explore a topic in more depth.

Students can attend as many tutorials as they like, but they can only take 2 tutorials for credit. Regular attendance of and participation in a tutorial can earn you 1 ECTS towards the total number of your optional credits \((\text{Wahlleistungen/electives})\). Please consult KSL for any BA tutorials offered.

Freier Wahlbereich (Electives outside the Department) (15 ECTS)

BA majors have to acquire 15 ECTS in the \(\text{Wahlbereich}\) (electives outside the department) by attending courses in other departments of our university or by taking additional courses associated with our department, e.g. with the \textit{Collegium Generale} or the \textit{Berner Mittelalter Zentrum (BMZ)}. Students should consult the study counsellor of the respective subject to find out whether a course is suitable and whether it is open to \textit{Wahlbereich} students. All 15 ECTS of the \textit{Wahlbereich} need to be graded and you must receive sufficient marks for all courses you take as \textit{Wahlbereich} (the compensation of insufficient marks is not possible).

You are strongly advised to attend the Latin courses offered in the faculty. We consider it advisable within the framework of the Faculty of Humanities not only to acquire some knowledge of one of the classical languages, but also, more importantly, to learn more about the cultural and historical roots of European civilization. Especially for students with an interest in medieval and early modern English literature, Latin will prove invaluable for their further studies.

Stay Abroad

The Stay Abroad in Brief

For both BA English majors and minors a stay abroad in an English-speaking country is compulsory:
- Majors must spend 6 months abroad (24 weeks) for which they will be awarded 10 ECTS points.
- Minors must spend at least 3 months abroad (12 weeks) for which they will be awarded 5 ECTS points. Minors can also do a longer stay abroad and earn up to 10 ECTS points.
- Majors may split their stay abroad into two trips, neither of which is shorter than one month; minors may not split their 3-month stay abroad. Splitting the stay abroad requires majors to keep all necessary documentation secure over the course of both trips – this module is always accredited as a single six-month/10 ECTS whole.

NB. The PH Bern has changed its own stay abroad requirement for English students. Prospective English teachers must have spent at least 6 months abroad. Contact the PH Bern for further details.

Students can study or work abroad (mere travelling is not acceptable). For a selection of appropriate activities and advice on how to organise the stay abroad, see the slides from the most recent stay abroad meeting, which are regularly updated on the stay abroad section of the English department website.

All stays abroad must be approved in advance. You must discuss your choice with your International Coordinator (see the Who to Ask section on our website for the current holders of this office).

Prior Recognition of a Stay Abroad

ECTS points are not granted to students who are not matriculated at the university. This means that you may receive recognition of your stay abroad, however, you will have to gain the 5/10 ECTS points for the stay abroad by taking extra courses within the department. Each case is evaluated on an individual basis. Please send a formal letter of application and complete dossier to the Head of Department for recognition of this period along with the relevant proof (copies of plane tickets, transcripts, job confirmation, etc.). Be specific about when you were abroad and when you started studying with us. As of December 2014, students may seek prior recognition only for stays abroad that took place no more than two years prior to the beginning of studies.

What is an English-Speaking Country?

For our purposes, ‘English-speaking’ country refers primarily to the Anglosphere – those countries in which English is spoken by the majority as a first language (United Kingdom, United States, Ireland, Canada, Australia, New Zealand), or as the main language of government/commerce, e.g. South Africa, Singapore). It does not generally extend to countries in which English is spoken as a second language (L2), or where it is ‘official’ but not so widely spoken (e.g. most former colonies of the United Kingdom, that is, countries such as India, Sri Lanka, Kenya, Tanzania and Bangladesh).

However, each stay abroad is approved on an independent basis. If you have an idea regarding a stay abroad in a post-colonial context, you are encouraged to contact your International Coordinator regarding what ‘English-speaking’ refers to in relation to the stay abroad.

What if I have a disability or other personal circumstances that prevent me from spending significant amounts of time outside Switzerland?

The Stay Abroad is compulsory for all students. If travel abroad is impossible on the grounds of disability or other extenuating circumstances, however, alternative options can be considered. These could consist of doing an internship in a professional area relevant for students of English or in other activities related to the study of English.

Where to Go and What to Do

Study at a University in an English-Speaking Country

a. SEMP (Erasmus)

The department currently has four Erasmus agreements with British and Irish universities: the University of Kent, the University of Ulster, the University of Essex and the University of Limerick. If you are interested in doing an Erasmus exchange, you should attend the stay abroad meeting, which takes place annually during the autumn semester.

Places in Erasmus exchanges are restricted, and will be awarded on the basis of academic merit and a 700-word personal statement, in which students detail at what stage they are in their studies and how the exchange would help them. This internal selection process for Erasmus spots takes place in November. Applicants are informed by the end of January if they have been successful, giving them time to complete their paperwork with the International Office.

Deadline:

November (for internal selection process)

March (with International Office)

b. Other Exchange Partners

Students may wish to study abroad by going through our university agreements at the University of Wisconsin, Whitewater Campus, the University of Arizona, Tucson, Sam Houston University, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University Institute (Virginia Tech), University of Technology, Sydney, and Stellenbosch University in South Africa.

For further information, please consult the relevant webpages hosted by the International Office at the University of Bern. If you have specific questions about the application process, please contact Martina Carolus at the International Office (martina.carolus@int.unibe.ch).

Once the application has been accepted, please make an appointment with your International Coordinator to finalise the learning agreement.

Deadline: Consult International Office website:
http://www.unibe.ch/studies/mobilitaet/students/outgoing/index_eng.html

c. ISEP

The University of Bern is a member of the International-to-International ISEP-Exchange. ISEP has agreements with 150 universities in the U.S. and 80 universities worldwide, offering opportunities for students to study at one of these universities for one or two semesters.

For further information, please consult the ISEP pages hosted by the International Office at the University of Bern. If you have specific questions about the application process, please contact Hiromi Kamiya at the International Office (hiromi.kamiya@int.unibe.ch).

Once the application has been accepted, please make an appointment with your International Coordinator to finalise the learning agreement.

Deadlines: Consult International Office website:
http://www.unibe.ch/studies/mobilitaet/students/outgoing/index_eng.html

d. Tailored Option

The world is your oyster! Students wanting to go abroad to a university of their own choosing may do so. It is each student’s own responsibility to find out about application procedures, deadlines and admission fees for foreign students. In the recent past, students have had enriching and rewarding opportunities studying in London, Oxford, Edinburgh, New York, California and Singapore.

Once you have secured a place at university, please make an appointment with your International Coordinator to finalise the learning agreement.

Grants for Overseas Study

Students of the University of Bern can obtain grants for their university studies abroad, provided their need is well-founded. There are several options for obtaining grants:

a. Regierungsstipendien

The government supports study visits for Swiss students. The programme is administered by CRUS (Rectors’ Conference of the Swiss Universities). For more information, go to www.auslandstipendien.ch;

b. Kantonsstipendien

In cases of financial hardship you can apply for a grant from the Erziehungsdirektion des Kantons Bern to help with the cost of your studies or your stay abroad. For more information Before you apply for a grant from the ED, you should get a letter from your International Coordinator confirming that a stay abroad is a compulsory part of study for students of English. Applications for grants must be handed in as early as possible, at the latest three months prior to the beginning of your stay abroad.

c. SUB

The StudentInnenschaft der Universität Bern (SUB) is the official association of the students of the University of Bern and hence represents the interests of the students. It provides a list of institutions that students in financial straits can turn to http://subnew.unibe.ch/de/Beratung/Studienfinanzierung.

The SUB also offers advice on how to apply for grants: http://subnew.unibe.ch/de/Beratung/Rechtsberatung.

It may also be possible to procure funds from these organisations to support working abroad (see the section below).

Other Non-University Study in an English-Speaking Country

It is also possible for students to engage in non-tertiary study, for any level of qualification. These courses may vary in topic and scope – from scuba-diving, to creative writing, to photography. If a course takes place in an English-speaking country, in English, it is worth finding out from your International Coordinator if it will be valid for the stay abroad.

Students often ask whether they can complete an English course at a language school in order to complete the stay abroad module. In short, the answer is yes. However, students would be well-advised to consider carefully whether an English proficiency course (e.g. C2) will be a worthwhile use of their time, if they are already proficient enough to study in English at university level.

Working Abroad

Students may also organise internships, volunteer, or other work experience to be undertaken during the stay abroad. We have broad definitions for working abroad – in the past students have worked with ski companies, summer camps, conservation organisations and other NGOs, art/music festivals, language schools, publishing houses, and other diverse organisations. Some students have worked at IKEA, in a call centre, as an au pair, and at a drama school. You are encouraged to use your imagination!

For possible leads, students are advised to attend the stay abroad meeting, which takes place annually in the autumn semester (the slides from the meeting are regularly updated on the stay abroad pages of the website, http://www.ens.unibe.ch/studies/course_types_and_modules/stay_abroad/index_eng.html).

Once you have found an internship or other employment, please contact your International Coordinator in order to finalise the learning agreement.

Completing the Stay Abroad
In order for stay abroad points to be registered, you will have to submit a dossier to your International Coordinator upon your return to Bern. This will include:

- Copies of plane tickets
- Confirmation of internship/employment (in the form of a letter), or;
- An official university transcript, or;
- Some other confirmation of completion in the case of a language school, etc.
- A 750-word report detailing what you learned on your stay abroad.

NB. As an alternative to the written report, you can give a short presentation (roughly 5 minutes) at the annual stay abroad information meeting during the autumn semester.
